for building \nblockchain-based applications.\nIt is focused on working with private blockchains.
\nExonum is a framework designed specifically for developing private blockchains.\nThis is a system in which only a predefined group of nodes \ncan create new blocks in the blockchain (those same validators).\nThis one is written in Rust. I looked at their Github. It can be seen that they maintain,\nsome changes were made a month ago. Not abandoned. \n\n\nI have to do something already. I feel like a slacker. I read, I read...\n\nIn general, I'm trying to make a p2p network in Rust. I understand and have already started writing code.\nBut I need to take a closer look at Exonum."

The second one, we will explain you a little bit deeper about amount: The Conti has a big legal department and it checks all the possible data and sources to establish an appropriate amount. We check your annual income, the value of materials (you have a lot of SENSITIVE and PRIVATE files, Military budget and so on), etc.

Also, please don't forget about the decryption software and our expenses. Therefore, basing on all the info, we set a 5% amount for a payment. FYI, every our client is asked to pay this sum, you are not unique. But considering your situation we can give you very big discount - 20%. Now our price for you is $8kk." } {
